$100,000 Phone System To Be Operative Next Fall

By JOE KIJANSKI

Tim Raykovich, president-elect of the Student Council, has announced that a new phone system will be in operation on the Saint Joe campus in September, 1967. The new system will be similar to the experimental one in Halas this year.

At the end of this semester orders will be taken from students who plan to return. They will have the choice of having either a private line or a party line in their room. As soon as the room lists have been finalized for next semester the work of wiring the campus will begin. Mr. Charles Jessup of the Rensselaer branch of United Telephone will head the project at an approximate cost of $100,000.

The phones will not operate through the college switchboard but will have an outside line, similar to the ones operating at home. Each phone will have a private number and a type of student directory will be made available at the beginning of next semester. Students will be billed at the end of every month for any long distance calls that are made from their phone. Naturally the costs for party lines (two rooms to one phone) will be less than for a private line. Additional information as to costs and ordering procedures will be given in another Stuff article in approximately two weeks. Raykovich is currently meeting with the United Telephone Co. in order to arrive at

Summer Session Agenda Announced

Saint Joseph's College has announced the academic curriculum for its 1967 Summer Session, a six-week program that will run from Sunday, June 18, through Tuesday, August 1.

According to the calendar of events, registration of students will be held June 19, followed the next day by the opening of classes. Holidays from classes include July 1, the feast of the Precious Blood, and July 4, which is Independence Day. Final examinations are slated July 31-August 1.

A total of 27 different courses will be offered in these areas of instruction: accounting, education, English, geology, history, humanities, mathematics, philosophy, psychology, speech and theology.

Also added to the 1967 summer school program is a series of five special evening courses. These offerings begin at 7:30 p.m. on days ranging from Monday through Friday.

CONVOCATIONS

The underclassmen follow-up of the First Annual Shareholders meeting will take the form of two convocations at the beginning of next week. The juniors and the sophomores will meet at 7:20 p.m. in the auditorium on Monday, April 10. Freshmen will convene at 7:20 p.m. in the auditorium on Tuesday, April 11. Both meetings will be presided over by Father Charles Banet, assisted by Mr. Richard Flynn and will attempt to foster the spirit and spread the information revealed at the senior meeting on March 9. Ample opportunity will be given for questions from the floor.

Goal At $180

'67 Orphan Drive Begun

Last spring, the editors of Stuff appealed to the student body to contribute toward a goal of $180 needed to sponsor an orphan child in Vietnam for one year. Signs went up, appeals were repeated and dollars, dimes, nickles, quarters, and pennies came rolling in until the goal was reached and little nine-year-old Vu Van Toan became the foster child of the Saint Joseph's student body.

Toan is now ten-years old and our gift helped him toward a year of growth, both physically and intellectually. Toan's mother was given money each month to provide for Toan's welfare as well as that of his brothers and sister, and they were also given food, schooling and medical care. For Toan's family it was a year of hardship, and yet, a year of hope.

The agency through which we adopted Toan, the Foster Parent's Plan, Inc., has informed us that under the terms of the adoption, our $180 has done just as much as it could possibly do and if our adoption is to continue we must once again provide $180.

During the next two weeks Phil

Deaver will make the Second Annual Stuff Orphan's Appeal. When he comes around we hope that it will not be necessary to ask, beg or plead for funds. We did this completely as a student body last year. When he comes around we hope everyone will have already given the matter some thought and will be anxious to respond in whatever way they can.

The masterful technique of presenting a moving type of jazz was the work of a creative group called the Paul Winter Ensemble which appeared in the College Auditorium, Sunday evening at 8:00 p.m.

Excessive Water Usage Results In Early Dismissal For Easter

By JAMES O. SAUL

"Water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink" applied to Saint Joseph's College back on Thursday, March 9, and the whole situation eventually led to an unexpected 20-day vacation.

The reason there was "not a drop to drink" was that some students thought water was meant to be wasted once the original problem occurred Tuesday, March 7.

"School was dismissed because of the apparent determination on the part of some students to get out of school," states Father Paul Wellman, the college's business manager. "To achieve this end, they deliberately kept the showers and the sinks running, complemented by the clogging up and the flushing of toilets."

The whole affair started when the screens to the school's water wells, which act as a filter system, finally became so dirty that they could not produce enough pressure to keep up the student demand; soon the water tower was drained. Tuesday night, a 2½-inch line from Rensselaer, with the aid of a fire department pump, filled the water tower with 126,000 gallons in six hours. One college pump was shut down and examined, the results being that it would take three days to clean the wells and everything would be ready by Friday. The other pump was producing 200,000 gallons a day.

The following day, Wednesday, a second line was brought in from Rensselaer, making available an additional 110,000 gallons a day for college use, bringing the total to 310,000 gallons with the laundry shut down and the cafeterias running half-scale. The normal usage, with the laundry and the cafeterias running full-scale, is almost 200,000 gallons per day.

The fact that this water was used more than normally, and that the available facilities could not provide the campus with water was evidence that some people were using water excessively, according to Father Wellman. He also reports that two people were checking the toilets and water lines in the dormitories, shutting off the showers and sinks, and clearing the toilets of beer cans and other trash.

"In some halls everything was being done to lower the pressure," Father Wellman mentions, "and a partial water use was attempted in the other halls. To some extent, the entire campus was involved."

Meanwhile, the school pump, which was being readied for use on Friday, was tampered with as bolts were thrown into the mechanism, and the motor was turned on. This happened sometime Thursday and the motor was completely burned out and ruined.

Then, between 7:10 and 7:45 p.m. Thursday, a student gathering outside of Halleck Center protested the existing water situation. Finally, at 10:30, Father Charles Banet, president of the college, announced the dismissal of school.

Departmental Revisions Passed For English, Theology And Music

The faculty passed a series of important revisions of the graduation requirements and course offerings at their March meeting.

Academic proposals from the Departments of English, Theology and Music were approved by the faculty.

In the Department of English changes, composition was reduced to one three-hour course (there currently are two required composition courses). It is provided that a student can fulfill this requirement by passing a non-credit proficiency examination and then taking any three-hour elective course in English.

The Literature requirement (Humanities 23-24) is to be replaced by any six-hour unit of British, American or Continental World Literature; literature sequences are to be taken in the freshman year and composition in the sophomore year; and English 47, Catholic Literature, is to be dropped.

Within the Department of Theology, two courses titled Social Theology I and II were added while another course was dropped. The change involves a rewriting of the college catalogue outline of the department.

Four new courses were added to the Department of Music and several changes were made in the listing of departmental requirements.

In addition, the course titled Education 48.6 (methods of music) was changed into the jurisdiction of the Department of Music.

Pre-Canva Series Schedule Revised

Father Aloysius F. O'Dell, Director of Saint Joseph's Pre-Canva Lecture Series, has announced rescheduled dates for two of the remaining three lectures, which were postponed due to the unexpected early dismissal of classes before Easter.

On Monday, April 17, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Groppe will speak on "Children and Their Importance to Marriage" in the sixth of eight Pre-Canva lectures. Mr. Groppe is an associate professor of English at Saint Joseph's. This lecture was originally scheduled for March 13.

Father Rudolph P. Bierberg, professor of theology, will lecture on "The Meaning of Love" Monday, April 24, at 7:15 p.m. in the conference room. The talk was originally scheduled for April 10.

The final lecture in the series will be "Human Sexuality," to be given by Dr. Paul Williams, college physician, at a date soon to be announced. This lecture was originally scheduled for March 20.

Put Up Or Shut Up

On March 9, 1967 the student body of Saint Joseph's College "stormed the Bastille," while within their leaders were holding a Constitutional Convention. Strange bedfellows—a mobbish protest demonstration and a dignified gathering of intensely interested administrators, faculty and students—yet both gatherings were vitally concerned with the same problems. The question posed by March 9 is clear. Do we want a French Revolution of barricaded streets and hostile exchanges of escalating reprisals or do we want to sit down at the conference table and calmly and intelligently work out a system of proposed solutions—plans of attack which we will execute with the same vigor and enthusiasm, the same spark of unity, that lit the bonfire in front of Seifert Hall?

The question and answer period of the First Annual Shareholders Meeting focused on the question of dorm conditions. Administrators were confronted with the complaints voiced by several students that living conditions were far from acceptable. The administration admitted the fact that student comforts were last on the financial priority list (behind educational expenses and development costs) but also complained that the student body was somewhat at fault for negligence in the care of the living facilities available. This is the old vicious circle. "Students misuse and destroy what they have so why repair and improve?" "Administrators force me to live in this dump so why should I worry about a broken desk?" It is financially impossible for administrators to change the face of this institution overnight. It is within our power as an active group of creative and ambitious young men to change the face of this college within weeks.

The water situation of last month is a study in student irresponsibility and immaturity. Yet the events of that crisis illustrated that there is an untapped vitality, a force, an activism in our student body which can be funneled and directed to constructively attack the problems of life on this campus. Use your heads. Get together and mull over the gripes and inadequacies of the facilities. Intelligently present your complaints at the meetings on Monday and Tuesday. This is the purpose of these convocations. Propose some solutions. If student janitors, well-paid student janitors, is a viable solution, propose it. If you are willing to aid in a project to carpet and panel every room on campus, get together and propose it. Let's end the Reign of Terror and start building for tomorrow.—RWS

SCHEDULE OF FINAL EXAMINATIONS

Semester II, 1966-67

The examination periods will correspond with the semester class periods as indicated below. The classroom will be the same as during the semester. The examination period is an hour and fifty minutes.

Where a class meets during the semester on a two-day sequence rather than on a three-day, it will still follow the examination period assigned to the three-day sequence. Where a class meets on both the Monday and Tuesday sequences, the instructor will decide which of the two possible periods will be used. Where a class meets on the quarter or half hour, it will be considered as meeting on the previous hour. In the area of the Natural Sciences, the examination period is determined by the semester lecture periods rather than the laboratory periods.

All classes falling outside the periods designated below will choose a period (within the time designated for final examinations) through the mutual consent of the instructor and the students. The period chosen will be reported by the instructor to the Office of the Registrar.

Letters To The Editors

Dear Editors:

There are two points that I wish to make in this letter. One of them deserves condemnation and the other a commendation.

The first point refers to the very sloppy, small-time manner in which the recent elections were handled by the election committee. I believe that the Student Council came to the correct decision but does this lessen the injustice to each of the candidates? The reputation of the winner has been soiled and the loser cannot actually know the loss was fair. The question is not whether the Student Council made the proper decision, but why did something like this happen? This very definitely could have been the result of an "I don't give a damn" attitude on the part of certain members of the election committee, especially the chairman.

The control over the ballots was very lax as was the control over those voting. I do not know of one person who had his ID card checked when he tried to vote. This is a sad situation that must be rectified. It is too late to change the events of this year. I just hope that this farce is remembered next year.

My second point is commendation and gratefulness which should be expressed to Father Banet, Mr. Flynn, Mr. Gladu and the editors of Stuff for their fine work in preparing and promoting the First Annual Shareholders Meeting. Several other seniors and myself agree that it is an honor to be invited and a step long overdue. Saint Joe is fast becoming what it should be—a very progressive educational institution dedicated to its students. There is still a long way to go, but Saint Joe and the Pumas are well on the road to success.

A Senior

"STUFF" BABY

Dear Parents,

I am very happy to have received from you 1285-VN that I use to buy medicine for my mother and for other expenses of my family. The war is becoming worst in my location. The weather is bad. It rains a lot making roads very muddy and dirty. So, we are not able to enjoy Christmas, as before. Fighting is carrying on all the night that reminds me about the time my father died. We cannot sleep because of gunshots. I keep going to school as usual. I am always a nice and studious boy.

These are a few lines to inform you about my family and to wish you good health.

Your foster child,
VO VAN TOAN

Dear Editor,

Saint Joseph's is truly blessed to have a basketball player of outstanding athletic skills as that of Ken Broussard. If Saint Joseph's were fortunate enough to acquire more athletes of Broussard's abilities the losing tradition of Saint Joseph's could surely be reversed. However, good athletes do not desire to come to the college in the corn fields because they feel that their talents will fail to be recognized.

Unfortunately, Saint Joseph's doesn't want good athletes. Even though Broussard is considered by many as the finest basketball player in the school's history, coach Jim Holstein must feel differently since he failed to nominate him to the All-ICC team because of a lack of hustle even though he led the team in scoring, rebounding, and assists. He is truly more than worthy of an All-ICC nomination.

When a coach fails to recognize his finest ballplayers, it is evident that the coach doesn't really take an interest in his players and his team which is therefore a reflection on his season. Saint Joseph's College doesn't deserve a ballplayer of Broussard's ability. It is an insult to have him do a fine job and be only recognized in the record book. He surely would be better off at another school, a school which would really appreciate a fine athlete.

Sincerely,
Milt Payton

Dear Editors,

Saint Joseph's College is a Catholic institution of higher learning, supposedly dedicated to a series of purposes and aims. These goals appear on the opening pages of our college catalogue. And, unfortunately, Hans Christian Andersen could not have written a more superb fairy tale! The catalogue states:

"Saint Joseph's College is an independent institution of higher learning dedicated to being a community of scholars—teachers and students—working in mutual association under the leadership and direction of its teachers, towards the spread, preservation, clarification, discovery and defense of truth."

How, in God's name, are we, the students, expected to believe this statement, especially the last ten words? The crisis which occurred approximately four weeks ago destroyed the effigy of our Administration, and in turn revealed a hideous display of hypocrisy. A student organization reported the truth of the events of March 9th, concerning the water shortage and the rebellion, to the Associated Press. Upon our arrival home, a letter was received by our parents from the President of our College. The result was that the student body seemed to be responsible for the entire mishap, the water shortage included. Upon our return to school, these items were challenged by a senior student leader and were refused to be dealt with. But as this gentleman pointed out in his speech, why should the Administration fear discussing the problem, especially if the Administration has nothing to hide and is telling the truth? Isn't that one of the goals of Saint Joseph's College? "... The spread, preservation, clarification, discovery and defense of truth."

Several weeks ago, Father Banet announced in his Priority System that the needs of the students are the last point with which the College Administration is interested. At this time, I believe it would be wise to refer once again to the college catalogue.

"The College adopts and proposes to its faculty and students other worthy aims which are required and helpful to them in seeking and in striving for goodness of life. Among these are the need for observing social justice as well as pursuing individual rights..."

Unfortunately for the student, the Priority System dominates the purposes and aims of Saint Joseph's College. Ironical isn't it? The Administration appears to be defeating its own purposes. That's why the students of Saint (Continued on Page 4)

VOICE OF ROYCE

By TOM ROYCE

This being a new format for Stuff I felt obligated to inform those who read this column of a character and a few of his "worldly philosophies."

When I asked Jim Taggart, in an exclusive interview, why he didn't like beets, since he never tasted them, he replied, "Hell, I have never been shot at and I am damn sure I wouldn't like that."

As to his basic philosophy he remarked. "The world is round." (I'm not too sure what he meant). He thought it over for awhile and decided that "heaven is only forty miles away." Being an avid hunter he came to the conclusion that "the only good pheasant is a dead pheasant," and, "boy it's hard to out fox a fox."

Being a unique student, Jim thought "it was a nice day for a college this size" and discussed the difficulty of carrying 23.4 men on his back plus the government. He has such firm convictions, such as "study with Flynn and you'll always win," because "it is a long, hard road up the ladder to top management." As a corollary to this aim he figured out that, "Burkey plus Kelly over Pennington equals top management."

A staunch businessman, among other things, "Tags" hawks popcorn, coke, and programs. You might have heard him chant "cokes and jokes," or "programs—ten cents, three for a dollar—they got coach Banet's picture in 'em," at the basketball games. In this same line he considers "the price of Irish Setters way too high."

As a member of the varsity football team, he sees "football and Vietnam as synonymous." And "the best blocking dummy is a broken blocking dummy."

With a casual wave of the hand, he bid me farewell saying, "Remember Tom, 'Early to bed early to rise—can kill a guy!'"

ICC All-Stars Selected; Wade Named MVP

A starting team that averages 22.5 points per man, shoots better than .500 per game and converts at an .800 clip at the foul line has been named all-conference for the ICC.

The IOC first team, second team and four honorable mention selections were announced Wednesday, following election by the league's seven head basketball coaches.

Indiana State's twosome, Charles Wade and Jerry Newsom, are repeaters from last year on the first team, but for Valpo's Dick Jones and Vern Curtis it was their first post-season honors in the ICC. Newsom is the only junior on an otherwise senior squad.

The third place DePauw Tigers had the only sophomore chosen for conference honors. He was ICC rebounding champ Jim Jackson. His teammate, junior Tom McGurk, was the second DePauw player elected to the second team.

Mack Sawyer, Ball State, won a second team spot for the second straight year, while Butler's Ed Schilling reversed the procedure, dropping from the first to the second team. Rich Edgerton won the fifth second team slot for Indiana State. Sawyer is a junior. Schilling and Edgerton are seniors.

In other key decision-making the ICC coaches picked Duane Kleuh as the league's coach-of-the-year, an encomium won by the former ISU All-American in 1959, 1963, and 1966, last year on a "co" basis. Elmer McCall of DePauw and Gene Bartow of Valparaiso finished 2-3 behind the Sycamore coach who wrapped up his 12th year in Terre Haute with a bona fide bid for the NCAA college division crown. Of course, Bartow, who has nourished Valparaiso to a plump 98-49 record during his six years, had a substantial claim too in the coming tourney since his club was the only ICC outfit able to handle Indiana State.

The 6-4 Wade came out of close three-way voting to capture the top individual

Torches Burn Up Townies

The Town Torches used an airtight, man-to-man defense and a balanced scoring attack to dump the Halas Townies, 52-35, and win the Saint Joseph's Intramural Basketball Championship last Tuesday night.

Dan Layden led all scorers with 14, and it was his second half heroics which led the Torches to victory. The first half was mostly controlled by the senior squad, who had a 19-13 lead with 2:59 to go. But then two quick baskets by Paul O'Brien and Jerry Arenz put the juniors back into contention, and the score at intermission was 20-19 in favor of Halas.

Layden took complete control of the rebounding task, and also tallied 10 of his 14 points during the second stanza. He and Denny Wolters, another big front-line man for the Torches, each hauled down 11 rebounds to lead both teams.

O'Brien and Dave Dziachan followed Layden in the scoring column with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Both of them scored most of their points in clutch situations, when it looked as if the senior team might catch up.

For the hot-tempered Halas Townies, guards Bob Soltysiak and Larry Yost pumped in nine apiece, and Joe Zimmer followed with seven. The first half saw a blanket-like zone defense prove very effective for the Townies, but during the last 12 minutes their tempers got the best of them as they were called for two technical fouls.

During the final six minutes of the game, the Torches outscored the Halas ball club, 18-3, and that was the deciding factor.

The final whistle has sounded on the 1966-67 regular schedule in the National Hockey League. Probably the most distinctive thing was the Chicago Black Hawks' winning their first Prince of Wales Trophy. Amid the cheering, however, there is an undercurrent of unrest. With next year marking the NHL expansion, the powerful machine which Billy Reay has built will be decimated. The Hawks won with basically the same material they have had over the past four years, but the significant difference this year has been the addition of solid reserve strength. It is sad when you think that the Hawks will surely lose Hodge, Lou Angotti or Matt Ravellich. The New York Rangers and the Boston Bruins will be the two other hardest-hit teams. The Bruins especially have spent a great deal of time developing a strong farm system. The great, young rookie, Bobby Orr, is the first product of this system. But due to the super-fast expansion much of this will be lost. Granted there are many talented players about, but it will take years to develop sound farm systems again.

PUMA PRINTS

By JAMES O. SAUL

Despite the fantastic basketball ability of Kenny Broussard, his name is absent from the list of Indiana Collegiate Conference All-Stars.

The fact of the matter is that he was not even nominated by head coach Jim Holstein, for disciplinary reasons. No doubt, many so-called "authorities" on the whole incident—pro and con—will set up Broussard as a martyr and hang Holstein in effigy; or they will declare that "Brew" should be permanently ineligible "for the things he has gotten away with" and pronounce Holstein as "the god of the gymnasium." Everyone always has the answer.

Holstein has an answer. It was not done in malice, but for the betterment of Broussard and next year's team. Broussard also has an answer. Holstein wanted to punish him, but he should have done it by disciplining him for a single game.

The matter is now over and done with and, whatever the repercussions are, we can only hope for the good. The only answer to be found lies in the future and the hopes that this incident will lead in a direction which benefits both parties concerned, the basketball team's spirit and unity, and the college itself.

Junior Randy Kerhin was elected by his teammates as this year's "Most Valuable Wrestler" last Wednesday at Saint Joseph's annual Wrestler's Award Banquet.

Other awards went to sophomores Tom Bartkus and Bob Flak (Leading Scorer, 22 points); Bill Murphy, also a sophomore (Most Improved Wrestler); junior Bob Menard (Most Dedicated Wrestler); Jim Mulryan (High Tournament Finisher, 2nd in the Great Lakes Tourney); Jim Reidy (Most Helpful Wrestler); Denny McCann and Mel Holtz (Outstanding Mental Attitude); and Mike Reynolds (Captain of the Team).

"They gave themselves to ultimate dedication," head wrestling coach Bill Jennings stated at the banquet. "There was no apathy on this squad as they gave up vacation time, starved themselves to keep their weight down and drove themselves to the point of physical exhaustion."

The Puma matmen finished the year with two victories—two more victories than all of the last four years combined.

"I can only ask for more self sacrifice," Jennings concluded, "to take Saint Joseph's to the top of the competitive heap."

TRACK TALK

The Saint Joseph's College track squad opened up their 1967 season with an 81-69 triumph over Concedria Teachers College of Fort Wayne last Saturday.

Because of the rain-soaked track and 2-5 inches of water in the field, the times and distances were well below average. The Pumas managed to come up with two double winners—freshman Earl Crosby (880, mile) and Karl Maio (shot put, discus).

Campus Rep Best In Midwest

Kevin Porath, Saint Joseph's College student and campus representative for Phy-Ed Apparel Service, Inc. of Oak Brook, Ill., was selected from among 23 Midwest campus representatives as the student employee who best exemplified a conscientious and responsible attitude in the performance of duties during the first semester of the 1966-67 school year.

Kevin's selection was scaled and based on the number of students being serviced weekly in relation to service effectiveness and upon the strength of the recommendation he received from Mr. Rob Svendsen, Program Supervisor and Service Co-ordinator for Indiana and Illinois accounts.

In terms of (1) service management, (2) service organization, (3) inventory control and, (4) good will established, Kevin received rating in all categories.

Kevin's selection won him a cash bonus, being presented here by Mr. Hugh T. Finnegan, president of Phy-Ed Apparel Service, Inc.

the exact costs and any other pertinent information.

In the past Father Banet has personally met with the management of the main office of United at Warsaw, Indiana and the Business Office has made frequent requests for better service on a campus-wide scale. Raykovich added that this alone facilitated the ready acceptance of United to his propositions. In addition to the new system Mr. Jessup of Rensselaer's United has promised to place new pay phones in Halas, Gallagher, and West Seifert within two weeks. Up until the present time these halls have been without pay telephone service.

Father Kaiser Publishes Translation

Father Edwin G. Kaiser, professor emeritus of theology at Saint Joseph's College, has completed his translation of The Law of Christ, a massive 735-page textbook originally written in German in 1954 by Father Bernard Haring, C.S.S.R.

The work represents one of the largest writing achievements of Father Kaiser, a prolific teacher, speaker and writer on theology who joined Saint Joseph's faculty in 1944. Last year he retired from active curriculum teaching, and has since intensified his writing. Currently he is writing one book on Precious Blood Theology and another on Social Theology.

On March 8, the Student Council held its second meeting in as many weeks and although only a handful of students were present, the discussion that took place was encouraging.

Mike Lunkes, president of the Student Council, opened the meeting with statements concerning the revisions of the constitution from 1963 to the present time and the discussion of these revisions led to a consideration of the whole constitution. The Public Relations Committee, the Dance Committee and the Traffic Court were apparently added to the constitution sometime last year. They were supposedly voted through in a vaguely-slanted form, as "ideas" according to the Student Council, and Mr. Lunkes was calling for a vote on the 'wording' of these committees. In the course of the discussion, it was discovered that the Traffic Court, theoretically existing in the form of an "idea" in the student constitution, actually does not exist and further, that an amendment thus vaguely stated should not be an amendment at all. Father McCarthy summed up the situation beautifully, "Things do seem to be a little confusing."

After a lively discussion in which contradiction reigned, it was decided that the entire student constitution, starting with election procedure, would be studied by the Student Council for revision and the results be presented at a future Student Council meeting.

The cloud of confusion hovered over the meeting as other issues came to the floor. Thomas Spinks, recently appointed chairman of the Scholastic Committee, announced the members of his committee and that it will meet with Father Ballmann next Tuesday. Charles Reynard said that Joe Hemminger's ten-page revision for the "Little 500" rules would be considered for this year's race. James Beier expressed satisfaction with the handling of the senior class mugs and Thomas Franko presented a brief financial report for the second semester. The meeting adjourned with, despite the confusion, the feeling that possibly something had been accomplished.

Academic Calendar Revised; All Free Days Cancelled

Saint Joseph's College has announced eight changes in the academic calendar for the remainder of the second semester, as resulting from the early closure of school for the Easter break.

Father Donald L. Ballmann, Academic Dean, revealed the calendar changes during the monthly faculty meeting held in the Halleck Center conference room.

Mid-term grades will be due in the Registrar's Office Friday, Apr. 7, and the Aquinas Banquet and convocation, previously slated March 9, will be held Thursday, April 13 in Halleck Center. The following day will be the limit for first semester freshmen to withdraw from classes.

The free day in honor of Saint Joseph, May 1, has been cancelled and classes will be held. An academic procession, mass and dinner for the faculty will be held that evening. The May 4 free day for Ascension Thursday also has been cancelled.

The one-day break between classes and final examinations originally set for Thursday, May 25, also has been cancelled. Classes will be held May 25-26 and final exams will run from May 27-31. Final grades will be due in the Registrar's Office Thursday, June 1 and commencement will be held as originally scheduled on Sunday, June 4.

The effect of the changes is to regain four of nine class days lost when the malfunctioning college water system forced the dismissal of classes March 9.

prize. Named the ICC's MVP, the three-time all-ICC first teamer from Columbus, Ind., gathered 56 points in the balloting. That was just enough to beat his teammate, 6-6 Jerry Newsom, (54) and Valpo's Dick Jones (53), a 5-11 guard and the league's top scorer.

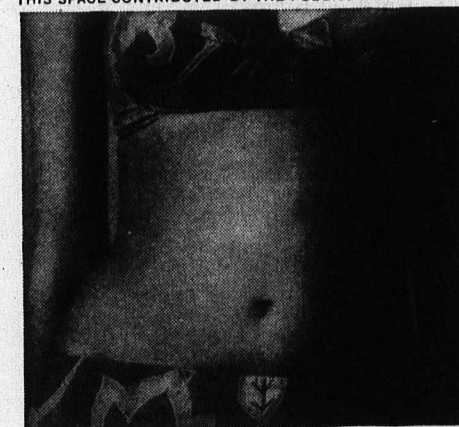

Wade wound up fourth in conference scoring (22.3), ninth in shooting accuracy (.503), and third in free throw shooting (.809). He is the first Indiana State player in 15 years to win the MVP award. The last Sycamore named was Roger Adkins in 1952.

The four men gaining honorable mention were Terry Stillabower, Ball State; Gene Milner, Butler; Rich Mason, Indiana State; and Ken Rakow, Valparaiso.

Twenty-three players were nominated by their coaches for all-conference consideration. The five capturing the most votes, on a 10-9-8-7 etc. basis were named to the first team and the next highest five to the second team.

Honorable mention was awarded those players who failed to make the top 10, but who received mention on ballots of at least two coaches.

Does your wife watch her figure but ignore her body?

Don't give her the benefit of the doubt. Ask her. Find out when she last had a Pap test. Or examined her breasts for cancer. Or had a complete health checkup.

Put her on the defensive. Tell her that nearly 100%, that's right, nearly 100% of all uterine cancers are curable if detected early. The Pap test detects them early.

Make her understand that thousands of women with breast cancer are being saved when their cancers are detected early. Monthly self-examination helps discover them early.

Then, after you get all done lecturing your wife, let her lecture you.

It makes sense to nag your spouse into routine health checkups.

It makes sense to give to the American Cancer Society.

Joseph's enjoyed having a stench about their lavatories, their clothes, and their rooms during the water shortage. That's why the students enjoy the Administration's right to stifle freedom of speech. For as we all know, The Truth Hurts! That's why the purpose of Saint Joseph's College is "... The spread, preservation, clarification, discovery and defense of truth."

"The rebellion of March 9th was a start in showing that we care about Saint Joseph's College, and that we don't want to be on the bottom of anybody's Priority List.

It wouldn't do anyone, administrators, teacher, or student, any harm to re-read the purposes and aims of Saint Joseph's College, and it wouldn't do anyone any harm to listen to the true complaints about this school. And it would do wonders for this atmosphere of despair if some Action was taken to prove earnestness on the part of all involved. Possibly one of these days, Saint Joseph's can be the college it is described as, and so can the people.

"Saint Joseph's College is convinced that any and all of the truths which it considers—whatever they may be—are to be sought for their own sake primarily."

This is the Saint Joseph's College which I expected to attend, not the one I am at now.

Thank you/

Dear Editor,

It has come to my attention that for the last big weekend—the weekend of the Peter and Gordon Concert—at least one girls' school did not receive the details about the weekend until the Monday before. The school is Cardinal Stritch of Milwaukee and the source of information is a young lady on the social committee. She complained that this was hardly enough time to organize a weekend trip. The year's social schedule is sent to the girls' schools at the beginning of the first semester. It is obvious that another announcement just before the actual event is necessary to provide sufficient information. "Just before," of course, is not as effective four days before the event as it would be a week or a week and a half in advance.

This is not my primary complaint. About three weeks ago, when I inquired as to the reason there is seldom, almost never, a bulletin issued to the student body concerning the prospects for and details of upcoming events I was told there was never sufficient information until Thursday or Friday night to warrant a bulletin. This in itself is an incriminating representation of our representation.

Information in the form of a complete and recent schedule for each weekend, more than the minimal schedule provided by the calendar, should be posted. Possibly a synopsis of the response of the girls' schools on Saint Joseph's weekends and even, dare I propose it, announcements of the reception of invitations to mixers away at girls' schools, should be published.

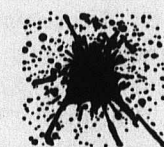

Many, if not all candidates, run for offices on the Council in some way promising better student-government communications. It may be too much to expect effective correspondence with other schools.
